WELD COUNTY TEXT-TO-911

Your guide to how, when and where to use it.

IF SILENCE MEANS SAFETY OR IF SPEAKING ISN'T POSSIBLE

TEXT-TO-911

Weld County Public Safety Communications is proud to support Text-to-911 services. Text-to-911 offers an alternative way of contacting 911 in an emergency, but please note it is intended to be used only when calling isn't the safest form of communication or is not an option. Remember: Call if You Can, Text if You Can't.

Text-to-911 services are available to residents and visitors of Weld County. Like any service, however, it is important to know how the service works, what its limitations are, and what to expect if you should need the service.

Please take a few moments to review our graphic and better familiarize yourself with Text-to-911 so that if you need to use it, you know how to use it effectively.

*Texting is not the most reliable way to communicate, especially in an emergency. Text messages can be delayed by your service provider, received out of order and may not be available if you're roaming. If you are texting because of safety concerns, make sure your phone is on silent.

BE CLEAR.

BE CONCISE.

BE CAUTIOUS.
